"Autumn"

She will paint the air with a wildness —
with such a depth of color
that honey and dancing firelight
will tangle in the sky
and silver-smoke reflections
that settle on earths shoulders
shall mirror the magical aura
of her golden pantomime.
Mysterious, willful, Autumn.
Capricious, childlike, Autumn,
with her mischievious Autumn smile.

It seems Park's Frosh have always had to prove themselves worthy of their place in the Park Family. In the past they have battled Sophmores in barrel rushes, baseball games, and tugs of war. As the years went by the Juniors and Seniors joined in, and helped to create events such as Humiliation Week, and a special Saturday night orientation class, designed to help the "wee babes" become better acquainted with Park's history, the upperclassmen, and each other.

Around 1954 these events were christened "Hell Week," and the goon squad was called down from the North Country to assist the upperclassmen as they helped the Frosh along the path to adulthood.

This year was no different.

It began on Wednesday night when the Frosh designed their nametags, and began to eagerly anticipate Thursday, when the goon squad would be introduced to them, and the real fun would begin.

Talent Show

This fall the Student Union Board sponsored an evening of unique entertainment in the form of a talent show. The entries were many and varied, with "The Micronesions" taking first place by performing some native dances. Pat Doughty came in second, playing and singing an original piece. A band, composed of Lance Hallam, Mitch Gelber, and Doug Gourley was third, playing Mitch Gelber's arrangement of "McArther's Park," Hank Doktorski came in fourth playing the piano and singing an original adaptation of "Kansas City," and Brenda Jones came in fifth singing some Broadway hits.

Family Day

On October 19th Park opened its gates to the people of Kansas City and the surrounding area, and offered them a chance to spend the day with their families, playing among the trees and hills. The day was christened "An Autumn Outing at Park College," and was meant to mark the beginning of Park's 101st school year.

The day contained a variety of events, beginning with a worship service in the chaple, and ending with a Northland Symphony concert. Other events included tours of Mackay, a horsemanship demonstration, a muzzle loader rifle demonstration, hiking tours, and picnics in the woods.

Harvest Fest came to Park with it's usual flair of color and festivity.

This year saw the addition of a powder puff football game, in which the New Dorm Hustlers took on the Hawley Harem, with the Harem coming out ahead.

The highlight of the festivities was the traditional Harvest Festival Ball. Angela Jones and Norman Knight reigned as Queen and King at the Plaza International Hotel, and Triology provided the music.

"Winter"

Winter comes silently
clothed in silver
blue lights from the north adorning her head

brings with her ice-drops
and crystals of satin
covers the earth in a
snow-soft bed

Winter comes softly
someone said

Winter comes harshly
with biting anger
cold freeze on the ground
and brittle sky

brings with her darkness
and whispers of dying
hard bitter woman
with jelous eye

Winter comes harshly
I reply

aching with vengence
cruel and shy

On July 1, 1975, as Park College entered its second hundred years, its management was assumed by the College Management Committee which consisted of eight members of Graceland College's Board of Trustees and five from Park's Board of Trustees. With this change, Dr. Gerald Knutson became president of both Graceland and Park, and Dr. Harold Condit assumed the title of Executive Vice-President of Park.

Under the agreement reached last year, the College Management Committee will govern Park for up to five years, after which time Parks Trustees may reassume the management of Park, or sell the ownership of Park to the R. L. D. S. Church.

spring

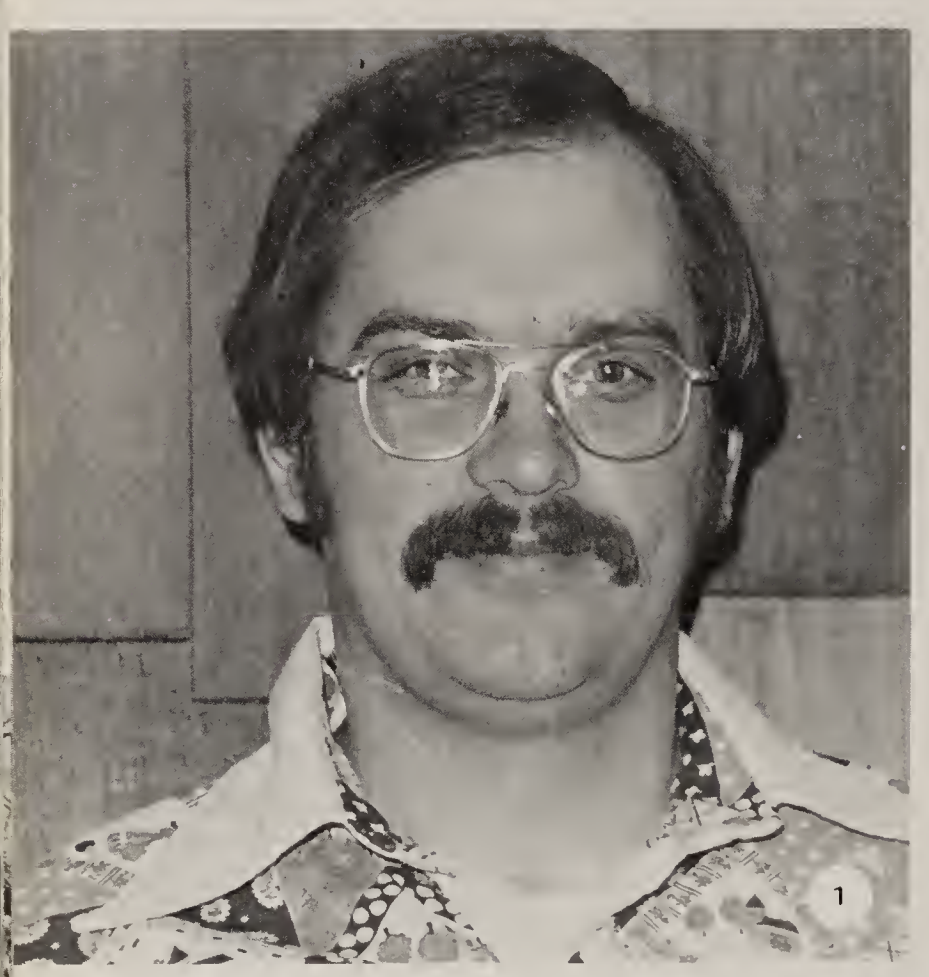

"Spring"

This Spring, she comes seeping through my window
on the yawn songs of
morning birds,
bringing the sun
to eclipse the sky
and pour down
upon the dark earth
turning the trees
green with envy.

This Spring, she comes
riding gently on my shoulders
peeking around corners
in flower faces,
scenting the air
with her heady perfume
and making me
dandelion happy
in her dawn.

The Women's Resource Center was organized by a group of Park women students in the fall of 1973, and was located in a Parkville house. In 1974 Sharon Morgan was hired as Coordinator of Women's Programs. Her duties included acting as Director of W. R. C., and the Center was moved to an office in Commons. The purposes of the Women's Resource Center are to provide programs and services to benefit women at Park and in the community, to provide resources pertaining to women and current women's issues, to provide counseling services for Park students, and to provide a place for women to relax and get together with other women. W. R. C. has no formal membership; all women are encouraged to participate in planning activities, and the Center and its services are available to everyone.

The Association for Black Collegiality is a social group of Park College. It was organized by Felton Butler and other black students in 1969 to combat racism, act as a mediator in community and campus relations, promote black awareness, and perpetuate community responsibility.

With these intentions, this organization hopes to build a stepping stone for black students that may enter the gates of Park College for years to come.

In the Spring of 1975, the government of South Vietnam fell. As a result, some 130,000 refugees came to the United States. In October of 1975, about fifty of these refugees began attending Park College. We asked some of them about their thoughts on leaving their homeland, and their impressions of their first year at Park. Here are some of their replies.

"At this time last year I was attending the University in Saigon. I was studying very hard to pass the final exams of the first year at the University.

All the things happened so suddenly that I didn't know that I would have to leave my parents forever. Why did this have to happen? I think I had to pay too high a price to live in the freedom country. I thank the people that brought me to America, and I thank the people that helped me so I can forget a little of the sadness."

"When I came to this country I liked everything, and I liked Park College, too. The American people were good to help us when we came to Park. They have helped us when we needed them. That makes me and my friends feel we have a good new life in this country. My friends and I want to say thank you to all the Americans who helped us at Park."

"It has only been one year since I left Vietnam, but I feel like it has been ten years since I left. Everyday I am tired and busy with my classes and job. Each evening I think about my mother and our family while I am sitting on the hill of Park College with the green grass below my legs. Everything is strange to me. I have to study about languages, customs, ... many, many things."

"I have been here for almost a year. Park is the last place I've been living since I left Camp Ft. Chaffee, and I think this is a good place to start my life.

When I got here, everything seemed strange to me, but then, I am getting acquainted with things around me. I like my new friends here and I recognize that they are nice open-minded friends. I am Oriental--a little bit quiet, and my friends are westerners--more liberal. I know there are differences between their culture and mine. For example, it takes some time to be able to use humor with people of such a different culture. Some things are humorous for me, but pathetic or don't seem funny to them.

Since I have been in the U.S. I always count my calories because Americans have many more fattening foods than Vietnamese do, but I haven't worried about getting fat since I've been at Park. At first I didn't like American food. I didn't like salad dressing, ketchup, mustard, etc. But now I'm getting used to it.

Since I've been here I feel ignorant about things that have happened in Europe. I used to keep track of the European singers, European actors and actresses. I could tell my friends who the famous European of the year was. Now, I just know about American movies and music. When I asked my American friends, they don't know anything about Europe at all. That just makes me feel sorry for them.

In Vietnam we study much harder than here. For example, our understanding of math in the 12th grade can compare to a sophomore or junior student here. I learned that most American students have to support themselves while they are in college. That was a surprise to me. In Vietnam I just go to school and study and don't have to support myself at so young an age. This gives me time to do things formyself. Now I'm Americanized--I am just like them now. I have to do everything by myself. So far, I have learned how to smoke and drink but I'm not used to it and I hope I don't get used to it, even though I think these are not real bad habits.

So I have learned many things during the past months. Maybe in the future I will learn more. I will keep all those experiences to improve myself whether they are good or bad, happy or sad."

Summer

Summer

Summer laughs across the sky
  on the wings of birds Weaving her echos into silken tendrils that
slide along the sun rays
  dancing fire-like
  down mountain streams,
Singing in the warm breezes
  that wind softly
  along the dawn,
And whispering of tomorrow,
  always tomorrow...
